Faculty Senate Group To Study News Plea Student Opposes Court

By LARRY FULLERTON
News Staff Writer

Faculty Senate has appointed five Senate members to serve on a special committee to study the request of the B-G News to cover and report Senate meetings, Dr. Grover Platt, Senate chairman, announced Tuesday.

Dr. Platt said the committee appointed last week will study the proposal to open the Senate doors to the News and "examine the implications of other news media wanting to cover Senate meetings."

The committee was formed following a News editorial and a Student Council recommendation last month calling for the Senate to remain open for News coverage. The matter was discussed by the Senate at a special meeting March 8, but no final decision was reached. At that time, the special committee was set up to study the issue.

The Faculty Senate constitution now prohibits News reporters from attending and reporting the happenings at its meetings. If the special committee's report implies that the News' requests to cover the meetings should be granted, the report will be sent to the Senate's committee on Amendments and By-laws, the chairman said.

The admissions test for graduate study in business will be administered at 8:30 a.m., tomorrow in 302 Hanna Hall under the direction of Dr. James Wright, assistant director of the counseling center.

THE MATTER will then be considered in a meeting of the entire Faculty Senate. Dr. Platt said a final decision on the proposal will probably not be made at the Senate's next meeting April 21.

Members appointed to the committee to study the issue include Dr. Peggy Hurst (chairman), Dr. Alfreda Rusher, Dr. Jeff Clark, and Dr. Donald Longworth. Dr. Hurst said the committee should have its first meeting within a week or 10 days.

Pictures for the May Queen Competition should be handed in to the Student Activities Office in the Alumni House and not the Union Activities Office as printed in Tuesday's paper. Also, Mr. Frank Wilkinson's quote that "We must be ready to protect opinions of those on the right," should have read, "We must be ready to protect opinions of those on the right."

The jurisdiction of the Student Court to try a traffic case and still maintain justice was challenged in court last week by a University student who received a ticket for illegal parking.

In connection with the case, the student announced he is preparing a critical statement against Dr. Russell Decker, adviser to the court. He said he intends to send the statement to University President William T. Jerome and to the Faculty Senate.

Dr. Decker said he had not seen the statement against him and that he would reserve comment until he could read it.

THOMAS G. Longo, sophomore, is basing his case on the fact that he has a witness who can establish his (Longo's) innocence or guilt in the case but will not testify. Longo received a ticket for illegal parking in lot 15 B on March 9.

A pre-law major, Longo and his counsel, sophomore Jerry A. Schlatter, have done the main preparation of the case. Their hearing has been continued until April 22.

IN DISCUSSING their actions, Schlatter said, "We maintain we have a witness, Longo's father, who can prove his (Longo's) innocence or guilt. We have requested that he appear, but he will do so only if he is served with a subpoena that is backed by the State of Ohio.

Longo himself refused to testify. A subpoena would thus be needed to bring his witness to court. But the Student Court cannot require by subpoena a witness to appear in court if he is not a member of the University community.

"If my father received a subpoena from the Student Court, he would not appear. The Student Court has jurisdiction only over students; therefore, their subpoena does not cover him," Longo said.

HE WOULD have to come 150 miles from Mayfield (near Cleveland) and lose a day's wages. You might say he is a hostile witness," Longo added.

Dr. Decker stated after the hour-long hearing that in observing the trial it seemed to him "the two students (Longo and Schlatter) had some objective other than to find the defendant not guilty, but they never indicated what their intentions were."

He said he wondered what the motives of the students were in presenting the case in the manner that they did. "If we could have handled the case in the usual manner, and if the defendant would have testified that his father has parked the car in the place where it was ticketed, we could have found the defendant not guilty."

HE ADDED that if Longo had given such testimony, all that would have been needed to find him not guilty would have been a written statement from the father saying that he had parked the car. In this case, no subpoena would have been needed, Dr. Decker maintained.

LONGO SAID it is his constitutional right to choose not to testify in his own behalf. "I have this right, I have reasons for using it, and those reasons should not be questioned," he said.

The two students said in preparing their case they had received help from Dr. Edward S. Clafflin, professor of political science; Dr. Jacqueline E. Timm, professor of political science; Dr. Gilbert Abcarian, associate professor of political science; Bryon H. Marlowe, instructor in political science; and Dr. Sherman M. Stanage, associate professor of philosophy.

THE DEFENDENT maintains that since he cannot present all of his evidence, "the court cannot have the jurisdiction in this case and still fulfill its moral obligation of serving justice."

"Under the United States Constitution, the Ohio constitution, and all of the traditions of Anglo-Saxon justice, a man cannot be found guilty until all pertinent evidence is brought to bear before the court. That will not occur in this case," Schlatter said.

"We think the broader implication of this case is that if we get the verdict we want (not guilty) we will set a precedent. The court will lack legal jurisdiction in this and all similar cases. Then, in these similar cases, we feel that they will have trouble finding a party guilty," he added.

"WE ARE not saying that the court has consciously denied students their complete rights," Longo remarked. "But the students were not aware of the means to defend their case. If this knowledge is brought out, many defendants could construct a proper defense of their cases."

"In the past, the court has never been challenged in this area," he said.

"We are not trying to disrupt or make a mockery of the court. We are trying to show that it has been operating on insufficient principles," Longo concluded.

CONCERNING THE statement they intend to send to Dr. Jerome, Longo and Schlatter said they are basing it on their belief that procedures in the courtroom during their hearing were inappropriate.

Summer Housing Data Due Before April 14

Housing applications for the first session of Summer School are being accepted in the Housing Office, 133 Administration Bldg., according to Robert Rudd, housing director.

Students requiring first session housing should submit their requests before April 14, he said.

Undergraduate men who are single must live on campus during the summer sessions unless they commute from home.

Candidates for June commencement are advised that measurements for caps and gowns are now being taken in the University Bookstore in the University Union. No cash is needed at this time.

German Major To Go Abroad

Thomas Ehmke, junior in the College of Liberal Arts, has been chosen to study in Germany during the 1965-66 school year as part of the exchange program between American and German universities.

Ehmke was selected by an administrative committee, according to an official from the International Student Center, on the basis of his point average and his mastery of the German language.

Ehmke has a 3.3 cumulative point average and is majoring in German.

Ehmke's studies abroad are sponsored by the Federation of German-American Clubs. He will receive a scholarship of 3,500 marks, equivalent to $835 in American money. As part of the exchange program, a German student will receive a full scholarship to Bowling Green for the 1965-66 academic year.

"I was very happy to be chosen as the University exchange student will receive a full scholarship of my experience in Germany. I have decided to study with the University sponsored summer program in Salzburg, Austria, so as to be better prepared for college level lectures when I start school in Germany next year," Ehmke said.

Ehmke is a member of Kappa Mu Sigma, national mathematics honorary society, an assistant in the department of German and Russian at the University, and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity.

Kite Day Contest Scheduled By MIRHC For Tomorrow

The third annual "Kite Day" contest is scheduled for tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. behind the Fine Arts Building. The event, which originated as a Conklin Hall activity, will be sponsored this year by the Men's Inter-Residence Hall Councils.

Last spring, the contest developed into more of a "play in the mud party" as the rainy weather somewhat hampered the contest. But participants still showed for the event and McDonald East was awarded a trophy for the highest flying kite. McDonald North won the award for the most beautiful kite.

This year, those who wish to try their hand at kite flying should be at the judges stand behind the Fine Arts Building by 12:45 p.m. At 1 p.m., the kites will be judged for design, craftsmanship, imagination, and beauty. The winners in this category will be announced at 2:15 p.m.

The actual kite flying will begin at 1:30 p.m. Only one trophy will be awarded for the highest flying kite. In case of a tie, a fly-off will be held at 3 p.m. Winners and three trophies will be presented at this time. Awards will be given for the best looking kite in both the men's and women's division and for the highest flying kite. While the contest is in progress entertainment will be provided by the MIRHC.

In case of bad weather, judging for the best looking kites will be at 1:30 p.m. in the east lounge of Kohl Hall. A dance will be held at 2 p.m. in the Rathskeller and trophies will be presented at 2:30 p.m. to the winners.

Math Conference To Feature Noted Geometry Expert

Internationally known mathematician Dr. Hermann von Baravalle will be the principal speaker at a conference on "Geometry in the Grades," Tuesday in the ballroom.

The conference is sponsored by the College of Education and is designed for teachers, administrators, parents, and members of boards of education.

Dr. von Baravalle will lecture on "Geometry in the Waldorf Schools" at 4:30 p.m., and "The Dynamic Beauty of Geometric Form" at 7:30 p.m. Section meetings, conducted by various faculty members, will be held at 5:30 p.m.

Dr. von Baravalle moved to the United States from Austria 12 years ago after lecturing throughout Europe. He has written several plane geometry books and articles, for Life, Portfolio, The New York Times, The New Yorker, and The Christian Science Monitor.

He is presently serving as chairman of the mathematics department at Adelphi College, Garden City, N.Y.

Reservations for the lectures may be made through Dr. Irvin H. Brune in 108B Hanna.

Pepleader, Mascot Tryouts To Pick Spirit Leaders

Men and women of spirit are being sought for future Freddy Falcons and cheerleaders, according to David Larson, chairman of the Spirit and Traditions Board.

Cheerleading clinics and tryouts will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. April 27, 28, and 29 in Anderson Arena. Applications for the team mascot can be picked up at the Alumni House and returned by tomorrow.

Anyone interested in cheerleading which includes the opportunity to travel to other schools is urged by Larson to attend. They will be under the direction of head cheerleader Brenda Roth.

Prerequisites, said Larson, are an abundance of surplus energy and a pair of tennis shoes.

The new Freddy Falcon and his alternate will be selected by the Spirit and Traditions Board and two of the cheerleaders. He will be chosen on his imagination in catching the crowd's attention and his crowd appeal.

Only responsibility involved is to appear at all of the games, Larson said. If the student selected is unable to attend any game, the alternate will substitute.

Any male student may try out. Grades will be taken in consideration in judging applications.

Adopt Underprivileged Children

Conklin, Angel Flight Now 'Proud Parents'

Conklin Hall and Area E-2 Angel Flights recently became the "proud parents" of two underprivileged children.

"LAST FALL, someone suggested that we sponsor an orphan or underprivileged child. Through the work of the Administrative Council and John Holian, a Conklin resident, we now are contributing to the support of Rita Munoz, an underprivileged child from Ecuador," said M. Thomas Hay, head resident of Conklin Hall.

Mr. Hay said that the dormitory residents are not allowed to use dormitory funds to support this girl, so all the money comes from donations made by the residents. The men raise $15 a month to help finance this girl.

The money is sent to the Foster

Parents Plan, the organization through which Conklin received Rita's name.

ACCORDING TO information that Conklin received from the Foster Parents Plan foundation, Rita lives with her parents and five brothers in a suburb of Guayaquil. Her father works as a watchman, and earns about $6 a month. Her mother works as a laundress, and earns about $7.50 a month.

"This total monthly income of $13.50 hardly is adequate to provide even the basic daily needs of this family," Mr. Hay said.

Rita is in the second grade of primary school and says she would like to become a teacher when she grows up. After school and studying, she tries to teach her brothers to read and write. She also likes to play games with her friends, and enjoys swimming.

Mr. Hay said that the residents of Conklin are in the process of raising money to carry through the summer months. They are getting this money from bake sales and other events.

"WE RECENTLY sent a letter to Rita. George Libbmann, a resident of Conklin, is a foreign student from Peru. Since he speaks Spanish, he helped us with the letter," Mr. Hay said.

Area E-2 Angel Flights have adopted an American Indian girl "Rosetta" for their Area Welfare Project. Area E-2 consists of six Angel Flights, located on the campuses of Case Institute of Technology, Cleveland; Kent State University, Kent; University of Akron, Akron; University of Detroit, Detroit; Michigan State University, East Lansing; and the area headquarters, Bowling Green.

The Flights raised the money needed to support their child through bake sales, drawings, or taking the money directly from the Flight treasury.

"Rosetta," a teenager from Oklahoma, was adopted through the Christian Children's Fund, Inc., Richmond, Va. An organization or individual may adopt a child if he has the money and desire to do so.

The Flights will alternate writing to their newly adopted child. Letters sent or received will be duplicated and distributed to the rest of the Flights. On special occasions all the Flights will contribute and send one package to the child.

ANDREW MacPHERSON, director of the Caledonia Singers and Dancers of Scotland, will take his group through its performance at 8:15 p.m. Sunday in the Ballroom. Student tickets are on sale in the lobby of the Union for $5.00.

In Our Opinion . . .

City Ordinance Needed—Now

A near-tragedy a week ago is being brushed aside by many as "unfortunate" and "unavoidable." That's an error in judgment of the first order.

Janet Schroeder, a junior from Fredonia, N.Y., was struck down by an automobile on Ridge St. in front of McDonald Quadrangle last Friday. She was sent to Wood County Hospital for emergency surgery for severe facial lacerations. Every one concerned—the driver of the car, the University Police, and Miss Schroeder, have since maintained that it was her own fault. The News disagrees.

First, it is true as she said that she did not look to her left and check traffic as she started to cross Ridge St. toward Prout Hall. Second, it is also true that Lawrence Howe, Jr., a junior from Warren, was driving west on Ridge St., at about 5-10 miles per hour, which is, of course, under the speed limit.

The News maintains, however, that although Miss Schroeder exhibited a certain amount of carelessness, the true blame rests with the city of Bowling Green, whose "let-it-ride" attitude has resulted in absolutely nothing being done.

Any move to close Ridge Street to vehicular traffic must come by city ordinance, since the street proper is not University property. Granted, hearings are necessary so that those who benefit from having the street open can publicly air their arguments.

Among these persons, most certainly, are those who have purchased lots in the Ridge St. Cemetery or who visit gravesites there regularly. But the News doubts if these well-meaning townspeople who frequent the graveyard so often want any University student to follow them there.

A group of university architects from Texas suggested last October that Ridge St. be closed "to help solve the problem of conflict between automobile and pedestrian traffic." How the hundreds of other University students who dash across Ridge St. manage to avoid this conflict seems truly confounding.

Until that time arrives when the city administrators take it upon themselves to close Ridge St., the News urges the University administration to authorize construction of pedestrian fences along both sides of the street—at least from Thurstin St. to the Women's Gymnasium. Inexpensively erected, it would allow pedestrians to cross only at un-fenced spots at the intersections.

This is the least that can be done. Or, of course, maybe nothing will be done. If that's the case, still more University students, whose names might not necessarily be Schroeder, will suffer the same fate—with probably more severe consequences.

As I See It

Ku Klux Klan— Society Of Bigots

By FRED ENDRES
News Columnist

The Ku Klux Klan, long recognized as a symbol of violence and out-moded thinking in the civil rights area, is a "hooded society of bigots."

So President Johnson labeled the Klan last week after the arrest of four of its members in connection with the sniper slaying of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, a civil rights worker from Detroit, and mother of five children.

The President and influential members of Congress, promised a formal investigation of the Klan, plus speedy legislation to curb its cowardly activities. Already, the House Un-American Activities Committee has put the wheels in motion.

The Klan has not always been associated with burning crosses and murder; but it has gained this reputation through its actions during Reconstruction, and thus, should be eliminated!

The Klan was founded in 1866 in Pulaski, Tenn. as a social organization for Civil War veterans. During Reconstruction, however, many Southerners began to use the Klan to terrorize former slaves who were enjoying a brief fling at political control and freedom.

SOON THE tall, pointed white hats, hoods and sheets and the burning crosses became the symbols for the deep-rooted hatred the members possessed for Negroes. The federal government took its first legislative action against the Klan in 1871 with the passage of the Force Acts, which gave the President power to suppress the Klan as a conspiracy against the government. The Klan disappeared.

It was "re-founded" in 1915 and spread like a prairie fire across the United States. Members lynched, flogged and tortured Negroes, Catholics, Jews, foreigners, and other so-called "radicals."

At the height of its power in the early 1920's, the Klan boasted a membership close to 5,000,000 persons.

SINCE THAT time it has lost prestige, gained it back, and lost it again. The present Klan was revitalized in 1956 in a most appropriate place, Birmingham, Ala.

Its practices in the past and those of today have changed little, if any. It is still an organization which would rather use a rope, a gun, or tar and feathers than the bargaining table.

Letters To The Editor

'Cheating -- Worst I've Seen'—Dr. Exner

The following letter exceeds the normal allowance in length for letters to the editor. But we consider Dr. Exner's comments both interesting and extremely serious. For this reason, we have not edited his letter. It appears here in its entirety. Ed.
Dear Editor:

It is with a sense of frustration and anger that I write the following. As I recall I have never written a letter to an editor before and thus feel somewhat naive about doing so. I have always considered myself to be liberally accepting of others. Being a psychologist, I have come to recognize the fact that people have idiosyncrasies which are integral parts of their personalities which simply must be accepted if a certain social orderliness is to exist. Thus, I rarely find myself shocked by alcoholics, homosexuals, narcotics addicts, or the like. And yet a deviant practice exists at Bowling Green, which I can neither accept nor disregard. This is cheating.

Acute Cheating Problem
Bowling Green is the third school at which I have been on the faculty and the sixth school with which I have had some familiarity. Over a span of some 17 years in the academic world as both a student and faculty member, I cannot recall an institution in which the incidence of cheating was apparently so wide-spread nor the acceptance of cheating so highly regarded. I suppose to some extent, that my awareness of the situation has been made more acute since accepting the chairmanship of my department, as it is in this role that I must deal directly with students accused of cheating. This task is possibly the most painful of many responsibilities. Every semester students have been brought before me accused of cheating.

Files Broken Into

Every semester examinations have had to be rewritten and administered as a substitute for examinations stolen a day or two before they were scheduled. Apparently the students at Bowling Green take great pride in their methods of preparing themselves for examinations. File cabinets have been broken open; in classes where multiple quiz sections are employed students often hide examination copies in their clothing so as to pass them on to student fellows taking the exam in later sections; pledges and other students are often sent into examinations in large sections with the simple purpose of memorizing a certain number of questions from an exam and later reporting them to "headquarters," and we have encountered situations where one student pays another to take an exam on a pro-rated basis where a certain amount is given for a D, more for a C, and the highest monetary allowance for an A. Here the student taking the exam has usually gone through the course and now takes it for a colleague.

Interviews Cheaters

I have interviewed a large number of students who have been caught and am mystified concerning their rationalizations for their behavior. Some claim that they felt that there was no alternative but to cheat in the course. Others maintain (somewhat more stupidly) that since everyone cheats they must. There is still another group who place the blame on the competitive atmosphere of the university suggesting that since the level of competition is so high and since grades are so important to prospective employers, cheating is possibly the only alternative to accepting mediocre employment after graduation. The Greek organizations in particular, despite their much vaunted role of campus leadership, seem to have evolved elaborate schemes through which their fellow members are able to deceive instructors concerning their knowledge. Apparently it is "chic" to have the best set of files.

Greeks And Independents

I would add, however, that the crime should not be laid only at the door of the Greeks for independents as well have been involved. Students detected in cheating behavior in psychology courses have ranged all the way from those on probation whose performance during the semester means "life or death" to students enrolled in honors programs.

Campus-Wide Problem

Apparently there is a campus-wide momentum to support these efforts to deceive the instructor, to sacrifice self integrity, and to perpetuate this insult against the purposes of education. To be sure I do not attempt to absolve myself nor my colleagues completely of the responsibility for this situation. We do repeat examinations. There is a finite limit on the number of good questions a professor can ask concerning a chapter of a text or a segment of a course. There is a finite number of good essay items that can be used over the years on a subject matter. Going further, it might even be possible that we are at fault for having grading at all. These are matters which may be open for future discussion. In the meantime, Bowling Green is a university which uses grading systems and no single instructor or any single department can ignore this responsibility. Some discriminations of talent and effort must be made.

Student's Solution

I cannot suggest a solution to the problem. Maybe we should have files in the library where at least they are accessible to all. I feel, however, that a solution cannot evolve from the faculty nor from the administration, nor the Board of Regents, nor the Governor, nor the State Legislature, nor any group other than the students themselves.

I have been both a student and an instructor at universities where an honors system is agreed upon and it is my belief that such a system not only works but ferments and exaggerates the striving for the highest level thinking and learning. I do not, however, believe that any system could work here if students will not support it.

Appeal To Students

I write in a general appeal to the students of this University. It is difficult to believe that any person regardless of his age, or his background really is desirous of sacrificing his personal integrity to practice the self deception which is a necessary prerequisite for cheating behavior.

I feel that Bowling Green has the potential of becoming an outstanding university. I hope that my colleagues and that many of the students who are here feel the same excitement about this potential. But to achieve this end we must abolish this parasitic attack on education and agree on a system of values which will perpetuate excellence in learning and thinking.

Dr. John E. Exner,
Chm., Psychology Dept.

Form Political Parties

Dear Editor:

The recent controversy over AWS has brought to the surface the longtime underlying antipathy between the Greeks and Independents. This, of course, has arisen from the fact that the Greeks, within the past few years have tended to dominate the student government offices on campus. I would like to suggest a way in which these "hard feelings" could be eliminated.

Taking a lesson from the national political arrangement where our two great parties are able to transcend ethnic, ideological, and other lines in our society; I would suggest the organization of parties to run slates of candidates for student office. These parties would be wide enough to cross the previously existing lines on this campus, such as that between the Greeks and Independents. This would seem logical that we turn to the representatives of the two national parties here on campus, the Young Republicans and Young Democrats to perform this function.

Blood Donation Day Set For Tuesday

Blood donations from University students and faculty will be taken Tuesday, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

Appointments can be made in the Union Activities Office, on the third floor of the Union, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and Monday, or by phoning extension 231.

Quota for this visit by the Red Cross Blood Mobile is 125 pints, according to James Hitchcock, chairman for Alpha Phi Omega national service fraternity.

Students under 21 years of age must have their parents' signature on a permit slip. "These may be obtained at UAO when appointments are made," said Hitchcock.

The Woman's Gymnasium was erected by the Works Progress Administration in 1939. Until then, women's health and physical education classes were held in 105 Hanna Hall and in the gymnasium which later was remodeled into the Joe E. Brown Theatre.

Falcons Rank 3rd In Battle For Reese All-Sports Trophy

Bowling Green is now ranked third in the competition for the David E. Reese All-Sports Trophy.

The trophy is awarded annually to the Mid-American Conference member school scoring the most points by virtue of standings in all nine sports. The award was named in honor of the MAC's first commissioner.

First place finishes are worth seven points, second is worth six, and so on.

Bowling Green finished first in football, third in wrestling, basketball, and swimming, and fifth in cross-country. The Falcons have a total of 24½ points. (The half is because of the third-place tie in basketball.)

Miami is presently leading in the race. They have amassed 28 points by finishing in a first-place tie in basketball, first in wrestling, second-place tie in football, third in cross-country, and fourth in swimming.

Ohio University is ranked second having accumulated 27½ points.

The trophy will be presented by Commissioner Robert C. James to the winner at the spring meeting, May 21-22, at Ohio U. in Athens. Standings in golf, baseball, tennis, and track must be completed before the winner can be determined.

Palmer Defeated By NCAA Champ

The University of Iowa won the National Collegiate Athletic Association wrestling tournament last weekend edging Oklahoma 87 to 86. None of the Mid-American Conference's five wrestlers survived the first round.

The Falcons Denny Palmer was defeated 4-0 by the eventual 157-pound champion, Bob Kopnisky of Maryland. Palmer was defeated by two mistakes—a take down and a reversal.

Kopnisky went on to easily defeat the defending champion Greg Harshman of Iowa and bring his season record to 15-0. Palmer's record was 17-3.

70 Prospects Ready To Go

Grid Drills To Begin Monday

By JACK HARTMAN
News Assistant Sports Editor

Football will fill the air Monday, as the Falcon gridgers begin spring drills. About 70 prospects will begin practice under the tutelage of new head coach Bob Gibson and his staff.

On the surface, the squad will be preparing for the annual spring game to be held May 8, but actually, as Coach Gibson explains it, there are three underlying purposes for the training period.

"To get the fundamentals and individual techniques down pat, to experiment with new ideas and combinations, and to set the personnel at the best positions are the three main purposes," Coach Gibson pointed out.

The drills will be used to find capable replacements at end, quarterback, and halfback according to Coach Gibson. The three positions will be hit heavily by graduation.

Strong points listed by Coach Gibson are the interior line and the fullback position.

Adjustments to the type of personnel available will also be made by the coaching staff during the spring work-outs.

The possibilities of using two fullbacks—Stew Williams and Tom Luettkie—in the same backfield at the same time, of having a running quarterback, and of lacking big, experienced ends will be evaluated by the coaches on the practice field.

Looking ahead to the upcoming season, Coach Gibson feels it could be a great one for the Falcons if . . .

One, all positions are filled with solid performers and good depth is available.

Two, the Falcons whip their two initial opponents, California State and West Texas State.

STAN EVANS will be at the catcher's position this afternoon as the Falcons meet Xavier in Cincinnati.

Falcons Open Season Today Against Xavier Diamondmen

CINCINNATI — Bowling Green opens its spring baseball schedule here this afternoon, facing Xavier, and it will be an opener without benefit of adequate spring training for the Falcons.

Dick Young and company are still awaiting a chance to get outside Men's Gymnasium, but the weatherman has been wholly uncooperative thus far.

Today's opponent, Xavier, has already played three previous games, while the University of Cincinnati, tomorrow's foe, has played five games.

Young will have either four or five veterans in his starting lineup this weekend. Sophomore Wayne Burdette appears to have won the battle for first base with second base still up for grabs between veteran Ralph Snyder and sophomore Warren Baird.

Letterwinners Tom Kashmer and Dennis Jewell will be stationed at third base and shortstop.

Tony Trent will join Tom Perlini and Jim Tims or Bobby White in the outfield. Stan Evans will handle the catching duties.

Young is still undecided on his starting pitcher, although Russ Jacques and Frank Conaway appears as most likely starters.

Cincinnati's Bearcats have posted a 3-2 mark thus far on their southern swing. Among their losses is a defeat at the hands of the San Diego Padres, a minor league baseball team.

Scott Simonds has been the leading hurler for the Bearcats in the early going. The swift left-hander will probably get the call Saturday against the Falcons. Other possible starters are Butch Smoll and Bob Manne.

"We will be at quite a disadvantage," Young pointed out. "I haven't any idea what kind of performance to expect from our kids."

Young reported that all of his charges were healthy and that no major injuries had been sustained thus far.

Lettermen's Return Brightens Outlook For Lacrosse Team

The outlook for the Falcon Lacrosse Club is very bright as 14 lettermen return from last year's squad which compiled a 3-7 record.

"We have an experienced and a well balanced team, but the bad weather has caused us to stay inside, so we're not as far along as we could be," said Coach Mickey Cochrane.

The Falcons will have their entire first attack back. This consists of Larry Bice, Bob Schnauber, and Steve Shuckra. "We also have a capable second attack in Ed Hendrick, Jim Heid, and Jeff Beran," commented Cochrane.

Fighting for the midfield positions are Mike Corrigan, Tom Green, Dave Lampman, Len Lintner, Chuck Myers, Jim Plaut, Larry Potter, Dick Slater, Don Williams, and Chuck Winters.

"Defense is a big question mark," remarked the young mentor.

Battling for the defensive positions are Paul Phillips, Herb Lanese, John Feasel, Dennis Dembia, Jim Anthony, Ron Cervasio, Bill Bunce, and Chris Burch.

The goalie, Mike Petrosini, might have to sit out the season with an injury. If he does, Terry Towle and Rich Aquila will be trying for the vacant position.

Defiance College will scrimmage the Falcons here Tuesday, April 6, at 3 p.m.

IS EUROPE?

College life is such a busy one, what with learning the Maxixe, attending public executions, and walking our cheetahs, that perforce we find ourselves sometimes neglecting our studies. Therefore this column, normally a vehicle for innocent tomfoolery, will occasionally forego levity to offer a quick survey course in one of the learned disciplines. Today, for an opener, we will discuss Modern European History.

Strictly defined, Modern European History covers the history of Europe from January 1, 1964, to the present. However, in order to provide employment for more teachers, the course has been moved back to the Age of Pericles, or the Renaissance, as it is better known as.

The single most important fact to remember about Modern European History is the emergence of Prussia. As we all know, Prussia was originally called Russia. The "P" was purchased from Persia in 1874 for $24 and Manhattan Island. This later became known as Guy Fawkes Day.

Persia without a "P" was of course called Ersia. This so embarrassed the natives that they changed the name of the country to Iran. This led to a rash of name changing. Mesopotamia became Iraq, Schleswig-Holstein became Saxe-Coburg, Bosnia-Herzegovina became Cleveland. There was even talk about changing the name of stable old England, but it was forgotten when the little princes escaped from the Tower and invented James Watt. This later became known as the Missouri Compromise.

Only last week he invented the German short-haired pointer.

Meanwhile Johann Gutenberg was quietly inventing the printing press, for which we may all be grateful, believe you me. Why grateful? I'll tell you why: Because without Gutenberg's invention you would not have this newspaper to read and you might never learn that Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blades are now available in two varieties—the regular double-edge blade we have all come to know and love, and the new Personna Injector Blade. Users of injector razors have grown morose in recent years, even sullen, and who can blame them? How would you feel if you were denied the speed and comfort and durability and truth and beauty of Personna Stainless Steel shaving? Not very jolly, I'll wager! But injector shavers may now rejoice—indeed all shavers may—for whether you remove your whiskers regularly or injectively, there is a Personna blade for you—a Personna Stainless Steel Blade which will give you more luxury shaves than Beep-Beep or any other brand you might name. If by chance you don't agree, the makers of Personna will gladly buy you a pack of any brand you think is better.

Yes, friends, we may all be grateful to Johann Gutenberg for inventing the means to spread this great news about Personna. The next time you're in Frankfurt-am-Main, why don't you drop in and say thanks to Mr. Gutenberg? He is elderly—408 years last birthday—but still quite active in his laboratory. Only last week he invented the German short-haired pointer.

But I digress. Returning to Modern European History, let us now examine that ever-popular favorite, France.

France, as we all know, is divided into several Departments. There is the Police Department, the Fire Department, the Gas and Water Department, and the Bureau of Weights and Measures. There is also Madame Pompadour, but that is a dirty story and is taught only to graduate students.

Finally we take up Italy—the newest European nation. Italy did not become a unified state until 1848 when Garibaldi, Cavour, and Victor Emmanuel threw three coins in the Trevi Fountain. This lovely gesture so enchanted all of Europe that Metternich traded Parma to Talleyrand for Mad Ludwig of Bavaria. Then everybody waltzed till dawn and then, tired but happy, they started the Thirty Years War. This later became known as Pitt the Younger.

Space does not permit me to tell you any more about Modern European History. Aren't you glad?

© 1965, Max Schulman

And aren't you glad you tried Personna® Blades? You'll be even gladder when you try the perfect companion to Personna: new Burma Shave®. It soaks rings around any other lather!

Most Important: How Game Is Played

By BILL HINE
News Sports Columnist

When the One Great Scorer comes to mark against your name, it matters not whether you won or lost, but how you played the game.

Those are the immortal words penned by Grantland Rice many years ago, yet today they describe so aptly the late Amos Alonzo Stagg, for few have ever played a better game.

When Mr. Stagg died recently at 102, superlatives were sounded the nation over hailing his attributes and accomplishments. His innovations in the generalship of football far surpass any other man.

He is responsible for: the huddle, the shift, the man in motion, the unbalanced line, the direct pass from center, the delayed buck, the sleeper play, the onside kick, and the Statue of Liberty, to name a few of his more outstanding contributions to America's favorite fall pastime.

He is also the only man ever to make the Hall of Fame as both a player and coach. He made Walter Camp's first all-American team in 1889. During his coaching career at the University of Chicago and College of the Pacific his teams won 310 games. (And not one of his players ever had an athletic scholarship!) An exploration of his athletic exploits could go on almost indefinitely.

But Amos Stagg was much more than a success in athletics. He has to have been one of the fairest and most unassuming men who ever walked this troubled earth.

As for being fair, he was asked twice to referee his own team's games. He once called back a touchdown one of his own players had scored; he had been the only person to see him step out of bounds.

A November, 1899 issue of Harper's Weekly in describing rather archaically a Pennsylvania-Chicago game commented favorably on Stagg: "the flagrant violation of the rules by Pennsylvania's coaches, who constantly advised their men during play, was very offensive to sportsmen and in marked contrast with the sportsmanly attitude of Mr. Stagg, who none will deny, was quite as anxious of the result as any of the Pennsylvanians."

Neither did he have all the material goods that are considered pre-requisites to the rich and full life today. But nobody ever lived a richer and fuller life. He was married nearly 70 years, and all of them to the same woman. Apparently, he was a man that lived by that trite old Golden Rule.

He never drank or smoked; the worst expletive in his vocabulary was "jackass."

Mr. Stagg found what few people really ever attained. He lived the good life, and he knew it. He lived life the way maybe a few more people in this world should consider living theirs.

For one who plays the game fairly never loses—Amos Alonzo Stagg is testimony to that.

Novice Debaters To Compete Here

The University will host the Ohio Speech Association Novice Debate Tournament tomorrow.

Fifteen schools from Ohio will compete in the tournament and debate the national proposition, "Resolved: that the federal government should establish a national program of public work for the unemployed."

Representing the University will be Robert Olive and David Klump on the affirmative, and Greg Gardner and Rodger Burnich on the negative.

The tournament will consist of four rounds of debate with a trophy going to the top school, according to Rollin G. Eakins, tournament director and University debate coach.

Richard Speer, graduate assistant in speech, is assistant director of the tournament. Stanley Zwerling, graduate assistant in speech, will represent the University as a judge.

MORE THAN 100 pieces of free-blown glass by Dominic Labino of Grand Rapids, Ohio are on display in the west display cases of the Fine Arts Bldg. Professor Carl Hall of the art department examines a blue colored bowl. All pieces are on sale, and prices range from $5 to $50.
